

The Diagnosis and Treatment of the Physician Burnout Epidemic

SPEAKERS

Dan Shapiro, PhD

Dan Shapiro, PhD, is the Director of the Chartis Center for Burnout Solutions, where he and his team assist leaders of multi-hospital systems with efforts to reduce burnout and the turnover of high-value physicians, nurses, Advanced Practice Providers, and other staff. Dan is an author and frequent contributor to thought leadership in the physician burnout space including the New York Times, Proceedings of the National Academies of Science, the New England Journal of Medicine, JAMA, Academic Medicine, and NPR's All Things Considered.

Deborah Berini, MHA

Deborah Berini is a Senior consultant with Chartis Center for Burnout Solutions. She partners with health care executives, nationwide to understand the drivers of burnout and develop strategic approaches to reduce burnout and the turnover of high value health care workers.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Uncover Root Causes and Reverse the Effects

Designed to uncover the root causes of burnout, this course also provides a deep dive into workable solutions for treating and preventing the spread of this epidemic. You will receive an outline for making the diagnosis, actionable treatment, and how to successfully reverse the effects of physician burnout.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Understand the key drivers of physician burnout
- Describe new ways to reframe the causes of physician burnout that create new opportunities for intervening in the physician burnout epidemic
- Identify specific action plans to meaningfully improve physician burnout and distress

AGENDA

SUBJECT TO CHANGE

DAY 1: WEDNESDAY

9:00 AM - 12:00 PM

Education Session (Includes 15-minute break)

What is Clinician Burnout? Why Does it Matter?

Applying the Medical Model: Diagnosing the Root Causes of Clinician Burnout

12:00 - 12:30 PM

Lunch

12:30 - 4:00 PM

Education Sessions (Includes 15-minute break)

What Will It Take to Move the Needle on Burnout?

4:00 PM

Adjourn